BRITISH TO SETTLE ON LAND WITH GOVERNMENT HELP

Plan To Build Own Houses in First Year; Group Plan to Make Small Farmers Of 8,000 Families.

LONDON, Thursday—A scheme to settle 18,000 families on the land in Britain is to be put into operation this year, it was learned today. The plan is a part of the government's campaign to reduce unemployment, and is expected to cost £14,000,000. Of that sum, £10,000,000 would be spent in England and Wales, and the remaining £4,000,000 in Scotland. Each family is to receive a holding of four acres. They will be settled in groups of approximately 200 each. The unemployed men who will benefit by the scheme will be taken from special areas, and will probably be an age limit of 45 years. The estimated cost per settler is £750. The men are to build their own houses during the first year. While they do so they will receive unemployment benefit, and the government will provide the necessary materials, stock and equipment.

Austria Discovers Large Nest Of Reds In Mountain District

VIENNA, Thursday—That Austria is by no means yet free of the Communists within her borders, despite energetic action against them since last February was evidenced yesterday by the discovery of a strong group of 60 Reds in Upper Austria. All of them have been arrested.

All of the Communists have been operating under cover, despite the activities of the government forces of police. The February insurrection was the start of a determined drive to wipe out Communists in Austria. At the time the aim was achieved, but since then new groups have been started.

The mountain districts of Upper Austria and the Tyrol, where most of the fighting took place in February, is still the stronghold. It is also announced that 52 employees of the state railway in the Salzburg mountain district, which is also near Germany, have been summarily dismissed.

The 52 railway men lost their jobs because of their attempt to keep alive the forbidden Communist party. They had been successful for some time in holding clandestine meetings, until the police were tipped off and raided.

LAVAL CLAIMS HIS VISIT TO DUCE AS A TRIUMPH OF PEACE

Franco-Italian Agreement On Arms Policy Is Confirmed After Denial Attributed To Foreign Minister.

PARIS, Thursday — Foreign Minister Pierre Laval arrived here yesterday from Rome, and is to leave again today for Geneva.

«I return from Rome completely satisfied, since I have sealed Franco-Italian friendship permanently and securely, thus serving the interests of both countries and of peace,» Laval declared on his arrival. He was met at the station by a distinguished company, including a representative of President Lebrun, several members of the cabinet and a number of high officials, as well as six members of the diplomatic corps.

Immediately on reaching the foreign office Laval received Campbell, the British chargé d'affaires, to whom he gave an account of the discussions between himself and Mussolini in Rome. The foreign minister afterwards visited the president and Prime Minister Flaminio Piccoli.

The agreement reached between Laval and Mussolini on the arms question has now been officially confirmed by a communiqué issued in Rome. Its existence had previously been denied by a semi-official news agency, which quoted Laval as its authority.

Saar Police Stop Riot When Anti-Nazis Try To Sell Nazis Paper

SAARBRUECKEN, Thursday—Rapid action by the Saar police under their chief, Major Hennesey cut short a fight between members of the pro-Nazi German Front and canvassers for the anti-Hitler newspaper Neue Saarpost here yesterday.

The canvassers called at the head office of the German Front about midday. They scattered copies of the latest issue of their paper on the steps of the house, and then tried to enter, with the object of bringing the publication to the notice of the office staff.

Employes of the German Front ordered the canvassers to leave the premises. As they did not comply immediately, heated words were exchanged, and finally the antagonists came to blows.

Some of the canvassers put in a call to the police station. A flying squad of 70 strong arrived, occupied the premises and disconnected the telephone.

Police Chief Hennesey himself arrived shortly afterwards to conduct investigations. They led to seven of the canvassers being taken to the police station for further questioning.

The incident, which is described

BUERCKEL LEAVES «SEPARATISTS» OUT IN GOODWILL TALK

Nazi Chief Foresees Large Vote Against Reunion With Reich When Ballots Are Cast On Sunday.

BERLIN, Thursday.—«After January 13 the way will be clear for reconciliation,» declared Buerckel, Hitler's plenipotentiary for the Saar, in the opening sentence of a pronouncement made last night at Kaiserlautern to representatives of the German and foreign press on the subject of next Sunday's plebiscite.

Buerckel then went on to illustrate what he meant by conciliation by denouncing all Saarlanders who may vote for the status quo as Separatists and Marxists. His statement was framed so as to prepare the German public for a considerable adverse vote.

The world, he observed, is now asking itself who will be the victor and who the loser next Sunday. If an international meaning is read into those questions, however the plebiscite turns out, its result will inevitably be the starting point of new conflicts, the whole event being interpreted as a straight contest between Germany and France.

Malcolm Campbell To Try For New Speed Record In Another Bluebird At Daytona Soon

LONDON, Thursday — The new Bluebird motor car in which Sir Malcolm Campbell will attempt to break his own speed record next month was placed on view for the first time at Brooklands yesterday. The latest model incorporates many new features, and engineers associated with the construction of the car prophesy that it will be capable of 300 miles per hour.

The giant car, weighing four and three-quarter tons, is being shipped to America on the Berengaria on January 16. Campbell will follow his car over a week later on the Aquitania.

The attempt to set up a new record is scheduled to take place on the sands of Daytona Beach in Florida on February 19. On that date there will be a full moon and weather conditions should be at their best.

A considerable advance on the present record of 272.108 miles per hour.

U. S. Government Must Apologise To Canada For Sinking Of Rum-Running Ship Years Ago

WASHINGTON, Thursday — Five years after the event, the United States government has finally seen fit to attend to the situation which was caused when the Canadian rum-runner I'm Alone was sunk by U.S. Coast Guards, in March 1929.

The I'm Alone was carrying a cargo consisting of 33,000 bottles of liquor. Challenged by the coast guard boat, the I'm Alone's captain continued on his way.

A shot fired across the bows had no effect, and a wild chase began. It ended when the I'm Alone was sunk with all hands, one seaman being drowned.

It was immediately claimed by the captain he was outside the territorial waters of the United States when he was spoken, and therefore within his rights in not answering. The Canadian government backed up the claim and an international incident which aroused much ire and publicity was the result.

Facing the Facts

The Franco-Italian agreement on armaments policy, after being unofficially announced and semi-officially denied, has now been officially acknowledged.

Reports of its exact nature presumably must be taken with a handful of salt until they receive the official stamp. With that qualification, however, there is reason to accept them as evidence of a new element of reasonableness in European affairs.

The French foreign minister, it appears, takes the view that the danger which is indubitably constituted by the rearming of Germany is not to be averted simply by refusing that nation the right to do what she intends to do, right or no right. Presumably this government agrees with him, as that principle has been embodied in the agreement with Mussolini for common action on the arms question.

Germany then is to be asked to negotiate an agreement with the other powers to limit her armaments, or at least to make public their extent. Presumably the Reich will expect her quid pro quo, and it will be difficult to offer her anything but an instalment of that disarmament by the other powers which was promised by the treaty of Versailles and which has been delayed on one pretext or another ever since.

No one can predict what sort of offer Mussolini and Laval between them can coax out of the world war victors, much less the reaction which that offer will produce in the Wilhelmstrasse. The essential point however is that an effort is being made to emerge from the stalemate produced when Hitler's representatives withdrew from the disarmament conference and their scarcely warm seats in the council chambers of Geneva.

Laval's decision to face the facts, however unpleasant they may be for his countrymen, has removed a barrier on the road to international understanding, and the nations can walk that road if they will.

FASHIONS IN PARIS

By MARY KNIGHT

PARIS.—Jeweled gloves and slippers are further proof that this winter season is to be a sparkling one, regardless of depressions, wars or earthquakes.

Black velvet gloves are the latest to boast the essential glitter with three rows of brilliants forming the veins of the back of the hand, and matching buckles on black kidskin pumps.

«Dust jewels» is what some of these small stones are called because they are merely flecks off the larger stones. In emeralds, rubies, sapphires and amethysts the «dust» stones give smart hands a new glamor.

You remember that Worth launched the bootee in his summer collection, and he has now made a few changes to produce a very lovely version of this new idea. Bootees for the robe de style in pastel kidskin suedes that fall open over the instep to reveal an interior of stitched and gleaming gold. Evening gowns are embodying the romance of all ages. Be they Pompadour or sheathlike, bare-necked or high ruffled, each one has the spirit of the special epoch it represents, and footwear, to be a worthy escort of such magnificence, must be as perfect in every detail.

Today's Fashion Tip

Jeweled gloves and buckles for shoes give brilliance to the winter season. Robe de style bootees in pastels open over instep to reveal gold stitching.

Britain Moves To Abolish Slums With Plan To Tear Down 280,000 Dwellings In Five Years

By HARRY FLORY

United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON.—«Slums must be abolished» declares Britain's one-armed Minister of Health, Sir Edward Hilton Young.

So the national government, with the co-operation of municipal authorities, aims to pull down 280,000 slum dwellings in England and Wales during the next five years and rehouse the 1,250,000 persons now living in them.

Slum clearance is the second point in the government's three-fold housing program. The first is the continuance of ideal conditions, namely, low interest rates and low building costs, to enable private enterprise to build houses for the middle classes and higher paid working classes.

The slum clearance scheme is estimated to cost the national exchequer $575,000,000, spread over 40 years, and municipal authorities another $175,000,000 to $200,000,000.

Arthur Greenwood, Minister of Health in the last Labor government, is the author of the slum clearance scheme which the national government has adopted.

It was only one part of Greenwood's housing program, as adopted by parliament in 1930. Briefly, it provides that the national exchequer shall pay a subsidy of either $12.50 or $16.25, depending upon the value of the land, for 40 years for each present slum dweller who is provided with adequate new accommodations. In practice the higher subsidy is paid in the largest cities, the smaller subsidy in other areas.

In addition, the municipal authority must contribute $18.75 per annum for 40 years for every dwelling provided for rehousing slum dwellers.

By means of the subsidy, rents of new accommodations, in theory, can be kept down. In practice, even with the subsidy, it has been found it cannot provide sufficient accommodations for the lowest paid workers at rents they can afford to pay.

So far, the slum clearance scheme, although it has been law for four years, has had no appreciable effect on building operations. During the six months ended Sept. 30, 1934, only 9,359 dwellings were completed under this scheme, compared with a total of more than 146,000 dwellings completed in England and Wales. The number of such slum clearance dwellings under construction on the date was only 19,301 while another 8,767 had been authorized but not started. But 3,643 areas, with a population of 300,000, had been «declared» for clearance.

Bank's Creditors Ask To Control Its Affairs

The creditors of the Crédito Balear bank are seeking to exercise effective control over the conduct of that entity's business when the bank resumes normal operations.

An assembly of creditors' commissions met at the bank on Tuesday, representatives of Palma, Inca, Sóller, Manacor, Felanitx, Andraitx, Luchmayor and Pollensa being present. They resolved to demand that the creditors shall have twice as many representatives as the shareholders on the future board of directors of the bank.

The commissioners likewise resolved that the shareholders be called upon to make good the balances owing to the creditors once the proposed agreement is approved and the bank is functioning normally. A third resolution refers to the agreement itself, by which the creditors are asked to content themselves with the immediate payment in cash of 20 per cent of their balances, and wait for the remainder.

The assembly resolved to advise and request all creditors of the bank to sign the agreement as soon as possible, as the only viable solution offering due protection to their rights, and so to end the abnormal situation created by the bank's suspension of payments.

ON THE ISLAND

By The Wayfarer

Winter, in a very meek and modified form, has arrived. It has been awaited for sometime. Now that a bit of cold is about, most members of the foreign colony seem pleased at the change.

HOUSE WARMED:—

To herald the approach of winter and to warm and initiate their new flat in Son Alegre, Lawrence S. Mortimer, prominent Palma business man, and Mr. Total, the well known French architect, were hosts to a large group of friends on Tuesday night.

The house warming was pronounced, and was without a shadow of a doubt, a huge and complete success.

Mrs. Dina Harris acted as hostess. There were abundant and well chosen sandwiches and a very adequate if small bar.

Noted among the many present were Miss Eugenia Lewis, and Mrs. Fulton Leser, who, together with Mrs. Harris, were models of what the well dressed woman is wearing this year.

HONORED:—

M. A. Badan has recently been elected Honorary President of the famous international curling club at St. Moritz, the Engadine Curling Club. Mr. Badan, who has been living at the Hotel Victoria in El Terreno for the past several months, served as active president of the club for many years.

Shortly before Mr. Badan left St. Moritz he presented the club with a cup to be awarded to the year's champion curler, which cup has been named the Badan trophy. Mr. Badan expects to remain on the Island for an indefinite visit.

GENOVA NEWS:—

The foreign colony in Genova, that popular suburb of Palma, continues to have its own social life. The latest Genova affair was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Carnap. They gave a dinner party for a group of friends.

Mr. Carnap drew cartoons and caricatures for «Simplicissimus» a popular magazine in Germany. He has been one of Germany's best known artists in that field.

FROM BARCELONA:—

Miss Chillcott and Miss Blackwell have recently come to Mallorca from Barcelona, where they stayed at the Pension Central. They expect to remain here for several months and have gone to the Calamayor district.

HERE AND THERE:—

Miss Helen Swatkovsky, a White Russian who still refers to her home city as St. Petersburg, left for Barcelona a few days ago. She stayed in Pollensa and El Terreno for several weeks.

Dr. Juan Cogollos and Señora Cogollos arrived here from Marseilles recently. Don Juan is a very prominent physician on the mainland. His home is in Albacete.

Miss Zella E. Mills, a teacher at the University of California in Berkeley, is visiting the Island. She is stopping at the Hotel Royal.

Don E. Garcia Diaz returned to Palma from England recently.

A more conscientious consideration of the real issues involved, according to the Fuehrer's representative, reveals that actually the Saar question is no longer one of foreign political conflict, but rather a liquidating act of all that has gone before. As soon as the question is removed from the international sphere, it seems a purely German affair, because it is capable of being settled by Germans, and Germans only.

Buerckel described the possibility of a plebiscite result favorable to the continuation of the present situation as «a thoroughly insincere contingency, serving to conceal the meaning of the whole ballot and veil the point at issue.»

From the German point of view it was a question of a vote «for or against the Fatherland», but admittedly that was only one side of the question. «All the Separatist movements in the Rhineland in the last few years», he added, «have resembled one another as closely as peas in a pod.»

Had the League of Nations really consented to a second plebiscite at some future date, said Buerckel, it would have been in plain violation of the provisions of the statute of the Saar. The duration of the existing situation would never be determinable by the Saar population, but would always be dependent on the will of foreign governments and on political events outside Germany.

The pronouncement of sovereignty over the Saar by the league depend on unanimity of the league council, which could never be guaranteed. The Germans of the Saar would never voluntarily place the fate of German soil, in the hands of foreign people and foreign governments.

«Whoever advocates the continuance of the status quo,» Buerckel concluded, «really aims at separating the Saar from Germany for ever.»

as provocative by the German press here, is symptomatic of the gradually growing excitement which is observed as voting day approaches. Clashes between political opponents are becoming more frequent, but no serious results have yet been reported.

The governing commission has ordered all Saar newspapers to publish on page one the following communiqué, evidently designed to calm the uneasiness expressed at the withdrawal of all gendarmerie from the district between the left bank of the Rhine and the French frontier.

«The distribution of the troops was made in accordance with the requirements of public order and safety, and with suitable accommodation ready for immediate use. The distribution of the gendarmerie has been made according to the length of each frontier.»

U. S. MUST APOLOGISE TO CANADA FOR I'M ALONE

Ever since then the matter has been either in abeyance or under investigation, despite the fact that it is a dead issue since the lifting of prohibition in the United States.

Now, a joint Canadian and United States commission has just decided that the United States should apologise to Canada for the sinking of the rum-running schooner.

The owner receives no compensation, but the captain and members of the crew are awarded varying sums of money. The widow of the seaman drowned in the fight receives $10,000.

Nothing is said of the lost cargo, although it was much bemoaned in the American press at the time of the occurrence. What form the apology is to take and whether it will do the owner of the lost boat any good is also not announced. But at least the issue raised by the I'm Alone is settled at last.

and Italian governments on the five power declaration of December, 1932 recognizing Germany's claim to equality, and provides for consultation between the two parties in case any country should attempt by unilateral action to recede from its obligations in respect to armaments.

Laval's practical and realistic view can be reconciled only with difficulty with the inflexible tone of the French note on April 17, 1934, according to L'Oeuvre, which in common with other papers discusses the reopening of the arms question brought about by the Rome conversations. Laval, according to that paper, takes the view that Germany's rearmament cannot be suppressed merely by declaring such rearmament illegal, while refusing at the same time to take cognizance of it.

L'Oeuvre affirms that Laval and Mussolini envisaged the possibility of addressing a new communication to Germany, inviting that country at least to make known its armaments to other powers, in accordance with the five power declaration of December 11, 1932. The powers would then be prepared to recognize the legality of Germany's rearmament, provided the Reich consented to sign an international disarmament convention.

Laval intends to travel to Berlin within the next few months, according to L'Oeuvre, but no definite date has yet been considered.

British official circles believe that an international arms convention is possible, according to a London despatch to the Matin. The basis for such a convention would be firstly, control of the arms traffic; secondly, the creation of a permanent disarmament committee; thirdly, control of the manufacture and employment of chemical products for war; and fourthly, the publication by all the great powers of their military and naval estimates.

CHAMPION WINS

Hilario Martinez, welterweight boxing champion of Spain, won a ten-round battle with Martinez Valera last night at the Teatro Balear by a technical knockout. The title was not at stake.

The champion demonstrated his complete superiority throughout the fight, which was remarkable chiefly for the display of courage on the part of his opponent. Valera was knocked down for a count of nine twice and for a count of six once, and again was saved by the bell. He abandoned only when his seconds threw in the towel.

Mompó, popular Mallorquin welter, won this fight in the semi-final in decisive style. All of the bouts were well contested, supplying plenty of action.

the most recent gathering. All of those present were taken into custody.

Austria has been having a hard time all through last year with opposing factions of Communists and Nazis. An iron hand ruthlessly applied has succeeded in a great measure in subduing and ousting the Nazis and their influence. The Communists still retain some power, however.

Summary trials of all those arrested in yesterday's raids are expected. The ring-leaders will receive death sentences, if the Austrian authorities carry out their usual policies, while the others will either get prison sentences or be deported.

Chancellor Schuschnigg, in taking over the government from the martyr Chancellor Dollfuss, expressed his determination to continue the drive to rid the country of the Communist and Nazi opposition. His hand is seen behind the raids and the summary justice meted out to those already tried and convicted of subversive activity in Austria.

MALCOLM CAMPBELL TO TRY FOR SPEED RECORD

hour, which is held by Sir Malcolm, is expected. That record was made at Daytona Beach on February 22, 1933. The car was similar to the present model, but numerous changes have been made in the motor and the design of the chassis, incorporating new ideas gleaned from previous attempts at speed records and from advances in motor design since that date.

Sir Malcolm is familiar with conditions at Daytona, one of the most popular motor racing grounds in the world, having been there many times previous to his present trip.

The Daytona beach is composed of hard white sand which stretches in an absolutely straight line for miles. It is wide as well as long, and accidents are few. There have been mishaps in motor trials at Daytona, but they have been due to failures in the cars rather than to the course itself.
