On the Island

By ELIZABETH DRURY

I had seen her many times on the streets and each time wondered who that interesting person in the grey wrapped crêpe turban could be. There was a haunting memory about it—that finely moulded, carefully chiselled, pale and calm face.

Now I know.

Mr. D. L. Matthew is in town with his wife Lady Constance Matthew and their small daughter Anita Iona—all of Rosshire, Scotland, and more recently of Aix, France.

They have been living very quietly in Palma for three of four months, but no one who has been so well-known in The States and the remainder of the world as Lady Constance Stewart-Richardson, best known of English dancers of the House and Senate over the new taxation measure which will attempt to make up the huge deficit in the Treasury. The sales tax idea was killed in the house and the new bill, recently passed, inaugurates instead a system of higher income taxes and various other forms of revenue earning.

PARIS. — The communal council of Houlbec, Cocherel, where the late Aristide Briand had his country home, have announced an appeal for subscriptions to erect a monument in his honor.

LISBON. — The Bank of Portugal has reduced the re-discount rate to six and one-half percent.

VIENNA. — The 200 anniversary of the birth of Josef Haydn, the celebrated composer, is being celebrated in the village of Eisenstadt.

BERLIN. — The official economic review published by the Prussian Ministry of Commerce reports no immediate hope of a revival of economic activity. Stiff.

Here's Your Chance! The Office Goat Wants a Swift Kick: Give it To Him!

By THE OFFICE GOAT

The Office Goat broadcasting.

And what a job! Being the goat for all the things that are wrong with a two-week old baby is no small job anywhere. And when that baby is a lusty rapidly growing newspaper—

Well, it's my job anyhow. And here goes.

First of all, the Goat wants to tell you about Sunday's paper. On the front page the goat announced that THE PALMA POST Directory of Extranjeros could be found on Page 3. And then he let the printer slip in that middle page insert which utterly changed the number. So. When you opened your paper to Page 3, you found a hotel list which was nothing like the directory

And the directory was on what should the Goat means.

Now I know you you'll think the Goat is a very busy animal. But to get a raise in salary, he's going to have to be busier

That's where YOU come in.

The goat has received a lot of well placed kicks in his day. But this is the first time he ever got paid for it. And so—

If you have any ideas for kicks—anything you don't like about this newspaper—anything in it you don't care for—anything not in it you would like to see—

Send in your kick to the Goat.

Come on. This is the chance you've been waiting for.

Add your kicks to those of the editor,

London Takes Notice of Palma Post

A London reader of THE PALMA POST has sent the following article, clipped from The Sunday Observer of last week.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Barcelona, Saturday.

English-speaking residents and tourists visiting Mallorca have so increased during the last three years that they are now to have their daily newspaper.

It has seen the light at Palma, under the style of the PALMA DAILY POST, and contains news-items of interest to Britishers and Americans. It is the only newspaper to be published in Spain in the English language.

London Sunday Observer, 27 Mar 1932.

the society editor, the advertising manager, the circulation manager, the art director, and the whole danged staff, down to and including the office boy.

That's the stuff. Gimme a kick, I like it. I get paid for it, No wonder I like it.

M'Donald, Tardieu Agree on World Policies

LONDON. — Accord of views between France and England as well as high hopes for results of the Four Power conference to open tomorrow was expressed by the

Besides Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of England and Premier Andre Tardieu of France, others who attended the conversations were Foreign Secretary John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain, and Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade.

An official announcement was made, after which Mr. MacDonald said:

"The field (consideration of the affairs of the Danubian states and of the economic and political status of Europe) was covered quite thoroughly. It was not an executive session in any way whatever. The discussions were very cordial but one or two rather important points were involved which required immediate examination.

"There was an exchange of views on these points which, if this preliminary exploration had not taken place, might have held up the conference for perhaps a couple of days. We understand each other perfectly well and we are determined in every way to get an agreement at the Four Power Conference.

"When it is finished I hope one of the big things which will come out of it will be the establishment of real confidence among the four of us (England, France, Italy and Germany) so that we can in singleness of heart and best of good will begin together to tackle problem that will have to be faced in the course of the Summer".

Premier Tardieu's statement was likewise optimistic. He praised the hospitality of the English people and opined that both nations "in the past have accomplished more difficult things".

Icebergs Cause Grave Concern On Atlantic

HAMBURG.—A field of 350 gigantic icebergs is moving into the trans-Atlantic shipping lanes, according to wireless messages flashed from ocean liners. All ships have been ordered to abandon the great circle route and take a more southerly course. This will mean a delay in the arrival time of all vessels.

NEW YORK.—Passengers and crews of ships arriving here tell a fearsome tale of gigantic icebergs, sweeping down like an army across the paths of north Atlantic liners.

All vessels have been warned to be on the look-out for the deadly floes and to stand ready to answer distress signals from other ships.

The field of icebergs is reported to be the largest sighted in many years. Its chart the position of all the bergs which gravely increases the danger of loss of lives and ships.

The fact that the bergs have arrived at this time of year—somewhat earlier than before—coupled with the immensity of the floes and their great number, has caused grave fears that the danger may increase.

An attempt will be made immediately to chart the field and to keep a permanent watch on its movement.

Meanwhile apprehension was felt for the safety of ships in Atlantic waters, especially those not carrying wireless.

Palma Race Fans Riot Get Paid Double

Mallorcans threw rocks and whatever else they could lay hands on last Sunday when the judges at the horse races made a decision against what the public thought just and fair.

The butt of argument was Bologne, speedy trotter well-known to the Hipica crowds. The horse stepped out in front of the field for a safe lead, when he took, or was alleged to taken, a few steps at a gallop.

From the judges' stand there immediately came the announcement that the horse was disqualified. Following in the glass in the stand was shattered by rocks from the gallery.

The Guardia Civil restored order immediately but the audience threw more rocks at the bulletin board which stated that Citrón and not Bologne had won. In the end the Hipica found itself forced to pay first money to both horses.

The Palma Post Directory of Extranjeros

Help Make This Undertaking A Success

This directory is for your permanent reference.

Incomplete at first—it is hoped that as time goes on it will grow into a full record containing the mail address of every extranjero in Mallorca, kept strictly up to date.

THE PALMA POST will bring to bear every resource at its command to make the directory live up to its intentions. But your cooperation is needed. If you, or anyone you know, arrives, leaves or moves, please tell us about it.

Also, please send in your name for permanent listing, if it is not already here. It is for the benefit of your friends here, at home, or traveling on the Continent, that your address be known.

If you do not have a permanent address, or do not wish your mail to come to your home, have it sent in care of THE PALMA POST, 18 Calle Conquistador, Palma. We will inform you of its arrival in these columns.

May we hear from you?

President's Ball at Circulo Brilliant Function

By MARY MUNRO

Perhaps the most splendid function given in honor of the President this past week, was the Circulo Mallorquin ball. The large and luxurious salons of the Circulo were resplendent with the glinting gowns of the women and the flash of dark eyes and jewels. The men furnished the sober background to offset all this color—that is, some of the men.

The military gentlemen, in their dashing uniforms, almost stole the center of the stage from their dancing partners. The attendants added not a little romance to the occasion, in their pure white stockings and knee breeches.

The extranjeros were there in large numbers, adding, perhaps, the only real gay note, since with them the intricate political question involved had no significance.

The President was his usual smiling and gracious self, especially to the ladies. His air in general betrayed just the tiniest bit of fatigue, however fort two days of public appearance and speeches, and hand-shaking must take their toll.

Of all the English speaking guests there, two ladies were signally honored. Mrs. Nina Larrey Duryea, Chevalier of many other decorations from half a dozen nations, was presented to the President, together with Mrs. Julia Loomis, the aunt of American Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson.

WORLD UNEMPLOYMENT GROWS

Great Nations All Show Increase of Jobless

GENEVA.—World-wide unemployment continues to increase, and signs of improvement in economic conditions are few, statistics released by the International Labor Bureau reveal.

The figures show that in practically every major country on the globe, more men were without jobs on April 1 than on January 1.

One cheering note was sounded. The last few weeks have shown some improvement. But that, it was pointed out, is largely due to seasonal employment in the agricultural sections of the Northern Hemisphere.

In the United States, in England, in Germany, in France and in Italy, new peaks of idleness were reached. The United States has no official role of unemployed, but official estimates were not comforting.

Both England and Germany showed substantial increases during the three months, and the condition was only slightly improved by the seasonal work.

France, with 1,000,000 full time workers and 1,500,000 part time workers without jobs, stands in much the worst condition of her economic history, the report stated.

For the first time in history, the unemployment mark.

Australia and New Zealand were the only nations to show fewer unemployed on April 1 than on January 1. Poland was the only country where there were fewer jobless this year than on the same date last year.

Greek classical school, could be left in seclusion for long... I do hope the announcement of my discovery will not hurry them away, though I know her American friends will be glad to hear of them again.

Lady Constance carries many happy memories of her reception in the States and will always cherish them as one of her fondest possessions, as they had met a responsive chord of love for the Americans in her own heart.

Lady Constance is the younger daughter of the 18th Earl of Cromartie—her sister is the Countess of Cromartie—one of the oldest titles of the North of Scotland, and also one of the few that descend in the female line. Her eldest son, Sir Rory Stewart—Richardson, whose father was killed in the late war, is of an old Nova Scotia Baronetcy which began in the reign of Charles II, and of which there are only eight surviving titles. Her beautiful young daughter, Anita Iona Matthew, reminds one of a Reynolds at the National Gallery in London, and although she is only ten years of age, speaks three languages and is looking forward to a career similar to her noted mother's. I am sure since Lady Constance has only this daughter among her three children, she will not discourage her ambition.

The golden girl you may have seen at the hair salon, yellow trunks, Lise Hair, and bronze skin was Miss Mrs. Gunhild Nord. They have another Majorca for a year, and of course know many people. Their house guest, Miss Christa Christensen has enjoyed her visit very much and is reluctantly leaving. Today, Mrs. Nordenfelt entertains a jolly foursome at bridge, Mrs. J. McEwen, Major John K. Rashleigh, and Mr. Heber Blankenhorn.

Were you lucky enough to see the excellent tennis match which took place yesterday morning at the Lawn Tennis Club? The players were the Baroness de la Bruyere, Miss Else Kusterko, Mr. Royden Wilkinson, and Mr. Bosanquet, ardent cricket player. The first two sets were tied, and the third ended in a deadlock.

Mr. and Mrs. Bosanquet are leaving for a short trip in England, after having spent some time in Pollensa and Palma.

Herr Felix Buttersach, journalist connected with the Berlin Lokale Anzeiger, is visiting friends in el Terreno.

Well I am off on another golden girl story, and after this one I shall seal up the phrase "golden girl" in a nice little glass jar and put it on the shelf for one week, at least. Miss Betty Brown of London, and 3 Santa Rita, Palma, golden hair, golden voice, and golden thoughts, will be entertained at tea by Mrs. Frederick Wilkins of Raxa. There she will meet two of her class-mates from the Ruskin Art School, Oxford,—Miss Joan Stemming and Mr. S. Stemming. Mrs. Wilkins, as most people know, has one of the largest and most beautiful gardens in the Island.

Isla Knowles Tells Of Graf Zeppelin Torment In Take-Off

(Isla Knowles is the daughter of Sir Arthur Pearson, founder of the Daily Express and Pearson's.)

By ISLA KNOWLES

Mallorca encourages roaming and almost subconsciously whets the investigator's appetite for more intimate knowledge of its fundamentals.

When there is time to meditate it is obvious that the fascination of the Island does not lie wholly in the light, the scenery and the buildings. It is the happy-go-lucky temperament of the Mallorquins of all classes which makes the place what it is.

In other countries outstanding interests of all kinds naturally abound, but generally round the corners and beneath the surface ugliness lurks. Hehe it is different. To see a beggar is the rarest thing. The people are proud, and if a member of their family is ill or has some unforeseen misfortune, they support him.

The occasional beggar is not a local product. When he is noticed by the authorities he is quickly deported to Marseille or Barcelona. As everyone knows this is not the case in most foreign lands—where beggars abound and greatly detract from the charm of prowling at leisure through interesting byways.

In exploring the less frequented parts of Palma—which the hurried traveller open palm, or an infected with many infirmity which is reeking and germ-saturated, needing antiseptic hospital treatment.

The peasants of the Spanish countryside look happy and healthy in spite of very primitive but picturesque dwellings. There, it would be useless for the beggar to ply his trade, since there would be no customers. It the cities it is different, but not so in Palma. The people of this place retain the detached charm of the country folk.

Let us hope that the progress of so-called civilisation will not change this great asset; if it does the present uninterrupted joy of investigating the various interests, which are on every side, will go.

and Paris, is returning this week to Paris to make arrangements for an exhibition of his work in Malaga. He exhibited at the Costa Galleries not so long ago, and received many favorable comments. Mr. Rappaport has just finished a commissioned portrait of the Greek Consul, Dr. Leonardo Juan Cilimigras.

Before I forget it, are you going to Victor's Tea Dance Wednesday afternoon? I am. The one last week was so successful he is having another, only this time he will have his own special orchestra, and you all know how well you can dance with than accompaniment.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN — Rising majestically into the dawn, the world-girdling Graf Zeppelin struck a wireless tower close to the field here and opened a gaping hole in its side.

The rent was not serious enough to put the ship out of control, but it necessitated an immediate return to the moorings to be patched.

After a few hours of repairs the great ship rose again and started successfully on its second regular scheduled trip to South America.

THEATER NOTES

AMERICAN REVIEW

With a romping, thoroughly American company, Harry Flemming came to town and started his "Follies of 1932" at the Lirico.

The show contains all the Yankee apurtenances so familiar to most extranjeros of Mallorca. It has the jazz band, the pretty girls, the negro singers. In all there are fifty in the company.

Included in the troupe are Elva Roy and her company, Marion Spadoni and La Yankee.

Coming Wednesday on the bill of the Balear Theater is the famous City Lights, latest picture of Charlie Chaplin.
