PROTEST NOTES REJECTED

«FACTS IGNORED»

BERLIN, Friday

M. Francois-Poncet, French Ambassador in Berlin, handed a note protesting against the introduction of compulsory military service in Germany to Herr von Neurath, the German Foreign Minister, on behalf of the French Government yesterday morning.

Herr von Neurath replied verbally, telling the Ambassador that the motivation of the note did not correspond to the facts, and that the protest must consequently be rejected.

Signor Cerruti, the Italian Ambassador, called at the Foreign Office here yesterday afternoon, and handed in a note from his Government, likewise protesting against the establishment of conscription in Germany.

Herr von Neurath, in accepting the note, informed his visitor that the German Government could not recognise the grounds advanced in justification of this step, since by their non-observance of the disarmament clause the other signatories of the Treaty of Versailles had failed to adhere to its provisions.

German Demands

Speculation is widespread here today as to the conditions for Germany's adherence to a general arms convention which Herr Hitler will make in his forthcoming conversations with Sir John Simon. According to one authority, the Chancellor will demand for Germany an army of 500,000 men, an air force of equal strength with that of France, and not less

REACTIONS ABROAD

BRITISH PRESS ON HITLER

LONDON, Friday

Germany's rejection of both the French and the Italian note protesting against Germany's adoption of compulsory military service was announced here last night in sensational headlines and heavy type by the evening papers.

«France And Italy Repelled By Germany» is one typical heading. «Germany Rejects Both Protests», blares another.

The situation has been much worsened by M. Flandin's speech in the Senate on Wednesday, according to the Conservative «Evening Standard». If M. Flandin aspires to be a second Clemenceau or Poincaré, declares that paper, then Europe has stormy days ahead.

The Liberal organ, «The Star», proclaims that England never held the view that Germany should be treated as a pariah among nations. It is not England's belief, it adds, that Germany could be repressed by force.

The Italian Government has decided that 200,000 conscripts, who were due to return to civil life on April 1, must remain with the colours in view of the European situation, reports a message from Rome. The message also reports repercussions in the Vatican City, where the seriousness of the Franco-German tension is fully realised.

The Pope is known to be preparing an Encyclical, and it is expected that the document will contain references to recent developments in Germany.

In Washington the Administration has not decided what action, if any, shall be taken regarding Germany's repudiation of the military clauses of the Treaty of Versailles, of which the United States is a signatory.

FRENCH APPEAL TO LEAGUE

COUNCIL MAY MEET

«DANGER TO PEACE»

GENEVA, Friday

The French Government's telegram to the Secretary General of the League of Nations with regard to the reintroduction of compulsory military service in Germany was received by the League Secretariat here yesterday.

The telegram, after calling the attention of the League to the situation created by the attitude of the German Government, asks that in view of the gravity of the questions raised by the German action an extraordinary session of the Council of the League be convoked in order to examine the present application of Paragraph Two of Article Eleven of the League Covenant.

It is recalled that that paragraph gives every member of the League of Nations the right to draw the attention of the Council to any circumstances likely to affect international relationships or menace peace or good understanding between nations.

Breach Of Treaty

Germany, the telegram records, published on March 16 a law introducing compulsory military service and fixing the strength of the army at twelve army corps. A few days before she had publicly announced the creation of a military air force.

In both cases, according to the French Government, Germany consciously disavowed contractual obligations contained in a treaty which bears her signature.

Germany, it is emphasised, is a member of the League of Nations, since the period of notice of her retirement from membership does not expire until October 21 this year. She is therefore still bound, according to the preamble of the Covenant, to respect all obligations imposed by treaties concluded between organised nations.

The telegram then concludes by quoting the article of the Covenant on which the French appeal is based, formally drawing the Council's attention to the situation and asking for an extraordinary session.

The next move lies with M. Rushdi Aras, Foreign Minister of Turkey and President of the Council of the League of Nations, to whom the French request is being forwarded by the Secretary General. The President has to communicate with the other members of the Council and propose a date for the extraordinary session. One member of the Council, Great Britain, will probably be opposed to holding such a session at all, if it can be avoided. The British Government has no

MISSION PLANE

«SAINT PETER» AND AFRICA

ROME, Friday

The famous German transatlantic flier, Captain Hermann Koehl, who with his comrades Herr von Huenefeldt and Captain Fitzmaurice was the first to cross the Atlantic from East to West, will henceforth be the first air missionary to Africa, according to an announcement just made here.

Captain Koehl will use a plane called «Saint Peter» which he recently piloted from Cologne to Rome after the machine had been christened by the Cardinal Archbishop of Cologne.

Pope Pius XI received Captain Koehl in audience in the Vatican City yesterday and imparted the apostolic benediction, as well as conveying his heartiest good wishes for the success of this most up-to-date form of missionary activity.

The idea came from the German missionary society which is known as the «Miva» and was founded a few years ago by the well known «flying father» Herr Schulte.

The aim of the society is to speed up communications between remote missionaries and the outside world, especially in the interest of sick persons.

The airplane «Saint Peter», which is the first to land on the territory of the Vatican City, is now exhibited in front of the palace of the governor of the Papal State.

After flying back to Cologne the plane will be shipped to East Africa, where Koehl will assemble it and fly to the principal Catholic missionary centres of Africa.

Planes have been used for missionary and ambulance purposes for years, but the «Saint Peter» is the first plane to be put into service especially for such uses.

Father Hubbard, the «Glacier Priest» who is famous as an explorer and geologist, has used the

CREDITO BALEAR SUSPENSION

OTHER BANKS TO HELP

PALMA BUILDING

MADRID, Friday

An important step forward in the slow and difficult business of rearranging the affairs of the Credito Balear bank, of Palma de Mallorca, which suspended payments last December, is expected to be made here tomorrow.

A meeting of representatives of other banks, originally fixed for yesterday, is to be held tomorrow at the Bank of Spain. It is expected that the extent to which the banks are prepared to assist the firm in meeting its obligations and reopening its doors will be announced after the meeting.

The question of the Credito Balear is on the right road, declared the President of the Credito Consortium in an interview here. «The last details of the assistance which the other banks will lend to that firm will be worked out in the meeting which will be held on Saturday».

Gobierno Civil

A telegram has been sent to the Home Office here to inform the Civil Governor of the Balear Islands, authorising him to invite the Civil in Palma, make a selection and transfer the same immediately.

The Home Office action is the result of a visit to the Under-Secretary for that department, Señores Fons, Canet and Miquel, Deputies to Cortes for the Balears. They showed him photographs of the building at present being used to illustrate what is called a shameful condition of the building.

SINGAPORE NAVAL BASE COSTS

LONDON, Friday

The amount of money which has already been spent on building England's naval base at Singapore was revealed yesterday in the course of a debate on the defence estimates in the House of Commons.

The stupendous sum of £7,325,000 has been laid out to make the naval base the most powerful and modern in the world, it was said.

The work will not and cannot be completed before another three years, during which it is expected that at least as much money as has already been expended will be required to finish the task, assuming that the estimates are not exceeded.

It is considered, however, quite possible that the estimates will be exceeded, since the plans have already been several times extended during the course of the work.

The expenditure of fifteen million pounds sterling was not considered too great, the speaker said, because the Singapore base will ultimately and surely be one of the key positions of the Far East.

The money spent on the Singapore project was voted several years ago. There was much discussion of the advisability of laying out such a huge sum at the time. Today the question of spending all the money available for defence meets little opposition.

The United States is building up its base and defence position in the Panama zone and in Hawaii at the fastest rate possible, and with the same idea in view as is held by the British with relation to Singapore. In both cases a key position for the Far East is envisaged.

FRENCH AIR FLEET PLANS

PARIS, Friday

General Denain, Minister for Air, informed the Air Commission of the Chamber of Deputies yesterday that it was intended to introduce a bill immediately authorizing him to utilize without delay a credit of one milliard francs for the building up of the French air fleet.

This amount has already been allotted for the same purpose for next year. General Denain proposes to take the money and use it now.

The Minister added that he would also demand an increase of the credit in question by five hundred million francs, so that together with the credit of two milliard francs allotted for 1935, the total sum of three and a half milliard francs will be available for the use of the French Air Force.

The request for funds for the time is of course a direct result of the German announcement of the building up of her air fleet. The French claim that this is in direct violation of the statutes of the Treaty of Versailles, under which Germany is bound because of her membership in the League of Nations.

England, for the same reason, has just announced that she plans for her air force in the present, according to a statement in the Parliament, England possesses 1,020 planes, exclusive of auxiliary and training planes, which number about 250. It has been ordered for delivery

RACE RIOTING

The serious race riot in New York's Negro district of Harlem a few days ago apparently gives the lie to the assumption that the human race has advanced and that civilization is making forward strides.

Ever since the Negroes were brought to the United States as slaves from Africa, they have been a problem of the most vexing sort. The American Civil War, that bloody strife in which brother fought against brother, was supposed to end the problem and bring peace. The Civil War came to a close in 1865. There has been trouble, now intensified and now lessened, ever since that year.

The Negroes as a race are not on a level with their White brothers. Their condition of servitude and lack of advantages, which lasted for centuries, is the reason. But every sane person will agree that there are Negroes, and many thousands of them, who are in every respect on a par with the best of the White races.

Why, then, if most intelligent White people realize this, are the Negroes not let alone? Do they always start all the trouble? Are they entirely responsible for the infamous lynchings of the South, which are increasing as the years roll on and civilization supposedly advances?

The Negroes are not solely responsible. The unintelligent and the badly educated Whites of the South are also not wholly responsible. But human passion is—human passion of the worst sort, of the type which has no basis in reason.

Nor is that kind of senseless passion confined to the Southern states. The lynchings and atrocities take place in the South, but the rest of the United States raises its hands in horror—and does nothing.

There is, then, no particular reason to be surprised that occasionally Negro passions will become inflamed and a sense of the immemorial injustice of their position lead to mass action and rioting of the kind which took place in New York. But there is reason to be surprised and disgusted that the causes of such happenings can be allowed to remain comparatively untouched by a people who believe themselves superior and civilized.

ON THE ISLAND

By The Wayfarer

The Homeric's arrival in Palma bay on Wednesday marked the beginning of the cruiser season. Some three hundred tourists came to the Island for the one day visit from the English cruiser. Most of them took to motorcars and were given the usual quick run from Palma to Andraitx and into the hills behind Paguera and Camp de Mar. While on the subject of arriving vessels it might be well to mention the crowded condition of the homeward-bound sailings. The Orient line's Otranto due in Palma today, is filled in the first class though there are many cabins available in third. A number of visitors are taking to the overland route as a result of heavy sailings to England. Mrs. Sykes, who was at the Hotel Victoria for some time, has started her return journey via Barcelona and Paris as has Mrs. Archibald. They left early this week. Miss Sarah Howse is sailing Saturday on the Otranto.

CHANGES:—
Mr. Rolf Memisohn, the German cartoonist painter, has taken a house in La Portassa, Terreno.

one of that group of houses facing the open sea at the far end of the suburb. Until recently Mr. Memisohn lived on the Plaza Cort, where he had a studio. The young German artist has been one of the most active and popular members of the Anglo-American colony in Mallorca. With a partner he founded the famous Waikiki Bar in Cala Ratjada, and he managed that enterprise until last year when it was sold. Besides being an excellent cartoonist and painter, Mr. Memisohn is one of the Island's best hands at the guitar. During his business career in Cala Ratjada he formed a one-man orchestra that became famous among Cala residents.

El Terreno's row of houses on the Calle de los Baños is fast becoming an artist colony in its own right. Mr. Olaf Barnett, the young English artist from Slades' School, London, has this week taken a house on that Calle next to the home of Mr. Geoffrey Nelson, the well known English painter.

ARRIVALS:—
Some arrivals from England not hitherto recorded in this column include Mr. C. J. L. Harding, Mr. G. H. Hearth and Mrs. Hearth, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hurst, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Laurence, and Mr. and Mrs. James L. Denton.

THE CITY:—

The Wolga Bar is supplying its customers with food and candlelight. The latter is not one of the owner's bright ideas but a necessity due to the the company supplying the electric current. They say they will not give the Wolga Bar electric light until the former owner of the restaurant which occupied the premises of the Wolga pays a bill now owing to the company. Meanwhile the new bar is giving the Palma elite a new type of interior lighting and a slight change in bar-atmosphere.

HERE AND THERE:—

The charming young German niece of Mrs. Lee was given a fling at Island night life this week by no less an authority than Mr. Ashley Day of El Terreno.

In Palma the latest casualties have been the Pullman, which has been practically closed for some time past, and the Pam-Pam Bar. Mrs. and Miss Reenes are staying at the Hotel Catalonia. The latter is an artist whose home is in Bournemouth.

TEA:—

Miss Higginbotham was hostess to a group of friends for tea in her beautiful villa in Corp Mari. She shares the home with Mrs. Worsley, who formerly resided at the Hotel Alfonso. The villa is located on the Calle Garita, in the vicinity of the home of Mrs. Ann Bowman-Burns.

FROM GIB:—

Mr. William Comstock, a banker from the United States, arrived on the Island recently from Gibraltar. His home is in Kansas City, Mo. and he has come to Palma for a long holiday.

Out Of My Head
by HARRY GALLAND

A discussion of the Spanish manana habit the other day reminded me of the true story of an incident which might have happened in Palma, but happened in New York instead.

Not so very long ago a group of five men in dungarees and blue shirts and carrying picks and shovels walked into the middle of Fifth Avenue about 10 o'clock one morning at a spot just opposite the swank Union League Club.

The four workmen, directed by their pipe-smoking and disinterested foreman, set up the usual rope barrier with red flags in the middle of the road to indicate that work was proceeding there. They then proceeded with the work.

The heavy Avenue traffic flowed more or less smoothly around them. The old gentlemen in the Union League Club, sitting as is their custom at the windows and gazing sleepily out at the world, noticed the workmen and thought nothing of them.

The workmen wielded their picks and shovels, tearing up a section of Fifth Avenue about six by eight feet. At noon time they knocked off for lunch, eaten from the tin lunch-boxes they had brought with them, smoked and talked, and then went on with their labour. In another few hours they completed their day's work, settled the rope barrier firmly in place for the night, shouldered their picks and shovels, and went away.

That was the last that was seen of them. The roadway was left exactly as it was, with the barrier up and the pavement neatly piled on one side. And it stayed that way for weeks.

Eventually the members of the Union League Club, who are crusty old gentlemen anyway, got tired of seeing the blot on their particular section of the roadscape and of the traffic jams which it caused, and phoned to the city authorities to complain.

The official who answered the phone said that the matter was not in his department. It was probably the Department of Plants and Structures the gentleman wanted. That department disclaimed responsibility and passed the complaint on to the Road Commissioner. He had not heard of an order for road repairs on Fifth Avenue. No doubt the Gas and Water Supply Department had the matter in hand, if the gentleman would call them at.....

And so it went on. Nobody would admit responsibility, nobody knew anything about the six by eight pavement which was torn up in the middle of Fifth Avenue. But the Union Leaguers are persistent and influential. Eventually the asphalt was replaced and life went on as before. An investigation ensued. Only then was it finally discovered that the four workmen and their indolent foreman were all students of Princeton University and serious practical jokers.

TRAVEL TALK FOR CHARITY

Don Federico Santander, the well known Spanish lecturer, is to relate his journey round the world by car at the Salón Mallorca on Saturday at 6:30 p.m.

The lecture has been arranged for the benefit of the Colegio Don Gonzalo, a school which is taking charge of the Asturian children who were orphaned as a result of the fighting in the North of Spain last October.

Señor Santander is to take his audience on a world tour in two stages, the first being from Spain to the Philippines, and the second from the Philippines to Cuba, whence presumably the car and its passengers were shipped back to Spain direct. The announcement of the lecture gives a long list of the places visited and the subjects on which the speaker will touch.

Part I of the lecture takes the traveller through France, Italy, Jugo-Slavia, Turkey, Palestine, the Syrian desert, Irak, India and Indo-China. Señor Santander will thus have occasion to speak of the Fascist decennial celebrations, of eleven days spent among the Bedouins, of Mr. Gandhi and Asiatic nationalisms, and of the work of the Spanish missionaries in Cuba and other parts of the Far East.

The second part of the journey is through China and Japan, by way of Hawaii to the United States, and so to the West Indies. The lecturer intends to record his reactions to the Japanese expansion, the hulahula and Hollywood, and what he terms the «Grandeurs and Miseries of North American Life».

Finally, he will recall the tragedy of the «Cuatro Vientos», which cost the lives of two heroic Spanish aviators flying on to Mexico after a magnificent flight from Spain to Cuba, and describe the Pearl of the Antilles as that unfortunate country appeared ten days before the revolution which overthrew the dictator President Machado and has been going on more or less ever since.

WORLD EVENTS IN BRIEF

OTTAWA Friday

It is officially announced that Canada will grant amnesty to all prisoners on the occasion of the Jubilee.

BUDAPEST, Friday

Election riots here were ended with the calling out of the troops, who quickly quelled the disturbances without casualties.

ATHENS, Friday

As a result of the reshuffle of the Greek cabinet, M. Tsaldaris is remaining as Premier and Foreign Minister with M. Pericles as Minister of the Interior. From London it is learned that although M. Venizelos' property in Greece has been seized, Mme. Venizelos retains more than half a million pounds sterling in England.

WASHINGTON, Friday

The largest army manoeuvres yet held are announced for August. They are to be held in New York State, with 75,000 regulars and National Guards taking part. The operation scheme is now being worked out and the War Department is asking Congress for $350,000 to finance the mimic war.

SHANGHAI, Friday

The Chinese government has received a communication from Great Britain enquiring about the national opinion of a plan for relieving the prevailing financial situation with an added expression of willingness to cooperate with other powers in extending such assistance. The Nanking government has approved the issue of 100 million dollars worth of domestic bonds for the purpose of increasing the capital of the Central Bank of China.

VIENNA, Friday

«Austria cannot provide adequately for her self-defence unless she adopts compulsory military training which has the approval of an overwhelming majority of the Austrian people», the Home Minister, Major Fey, said in an interview here yesterday. Major Fey is the first Austrian cabinet minister to advocate conscription publicly.

SPAIN AND REICH SERVICE

MADRID, Friday

Spanish public opinion has reason to concern itself over the situation brought about by the German law reintroducing compulsory military service according to Don Salvador de Madariaga, chief Spanish delegate at Geneva.

Señor de Madariaga is at present in Madrid, where he has been reporting to the Government on work at Geneva and discussing future policy with members of the Cabinet. He was interviewed on the subject of the German bombshell, which has caused a heated comment in the Spanish press.

Spain, the diplomat pointed out, remained neutral in the war which the Treaty of Versailles originated, and has been able to maintain the same neutrality during the postwar years, during which the situation created by the Treaty has been largely liquidated. It would be paradoxical, he added, if public opinion here should react more keenly than in the countries directly concerned, which are keeping quite calm about the denunciation of the military clauses of the Treaty.

The German decision, Señor Madariaga admitted, must cause general increase in armaments. However, he saw hope for peace in the general realisation of the tremendous responsibility of any nation provoking war by its insubordination.

Spain, according to her representative at Geneva, has two important obligations. The first is to use her great international prestige in favour of the establishment of the rule of international law and treaties; the second is to solve as soon as possible the international problem which divides the Spanish people in order to be united and strong in the face of whatever developments may take place in the international sphere.

The Government has already decided in principle that a new Gobierno Civil must be built in Palma, but several details have to be settled before the work can begin. In the meantime the business of the Civil Governor's office will be transacted in hired premises.

The same solution is proposed with regard to the General Post Office in Palma, another building which is considered a poor advertisement for the Government in Palma. The building of the new Post Office, for which the site has been acquired and the plans approved, awaits the necessary budget appropriation, which has been listed as urgent.

The Inspector General of Shipping has sent a communication to the inspector in Palma, supporting the request of Señor Fons that pleasure craft be exempt from taxation.

On the occasion of the reintroduction of universal military service the Chancellor has received innumerable messages from all parts of the country, as well as from Germans living abroad, expressing the loyalty and solidarity of Germans throughout the world, according to an official communiqué issued here yesterday. The communiqué goes on to say that since the Chancellor is unable to reply personally to this overwhelming number of letters and telegrams, he requests everyone to accept this acknowledgment of his heartfelt gratitude for their «magnificent and joyous» affirmation of loyalty.

The military service law will not affect the voluntary labour service, according to Work Leader Herr, the chief of that organisation. The obligation undertaken by all those members of the service who have signed on since April 1 therefore remains legally binding.
