SHOOTING OF SPANIARD BY SOLDIERS IN CUBA

CRUISER SENT

MADRID, Wednesday

The shooting of Don Marcelino Fernández Cadenas, 36, a Spanish citizen, by Cuban soldiers is reported today from Havana.

Señor Fernández's dead body was found near Mariano with four bullet wounds in the chest. Another man named Julio Manosa was lying near by very seriously wounded.

Señor Manosa stated that he and Señor Fernández were arrested by a party of soldiers, who marched them out into the country. They then shot both their prisoners and went off, leaving them lying in a field.

The Spanish cruiser Miguel de Cervantes has received urgent orders to leave El Ferrol for Havana, according to a report from that naval base, which adds that the order is connected with the events taking place in Cuba. That part of the report however is denied here.

Anxiety In Madrid

The Miguel de Cervantes, it is officially stated, is leaving on a cruise, and the nearest port to Cuba at which she will touch is Puerto Rico. It is taken for granted, however, that the presence of a Spanish warship in Caribbean waters is intended to reflect the anxiety of the Government for the safety of Spanish citizens in Cuba, even though she has not yet been ordered to enter a Cuban port.

Latest reports from Havana state that bombings and shooting continued throughout the night, though no casualties are reported.

SOVIET RADIO

USE OF SIXTY-TWO LANGUAGES

Moscow, Wednesday

The scope and extent to which Soviet propaganda is carried on in foreign countries by means of radio is illustrated by official information released yesterday, which states that the Soviet Union possesses no less than sixty-five radio stations which give daily broadcasts in sixty-two different languages.

Besides the various tongues spoken in Russia itself, such as Ukrainian, White Russian and Armenian, the principal languages used in radio propaganda by the Soviet Union are English, German, French, Polish, Finnish, and Rumanian.

Special broadcasts in Chinese, Japanese and the Korean languages are sent out in the Far East by the radio station at Khabarovsk and Vladivostok.

The broadcasting system, it is officially said, is being constantly developed and money is being lavishly spent in order to spread the gospel of the Communist faith far and wide.

Whether or not this propaganda is effective is not stated but is left to be tacitly understood. Apparently it is or the immense sums being spent on it would not be appropriated for the purpose.

The Soviet Russians, using their position as one of the most backward of nations as a springboard, have avidly seized on every modern invention and scientific aid which has come to light.

Radio is in the forefront. Typical of Soviet efforts to be modern in the last few years was the stratosphere flight. Large sums have also been spent and are being spent on Polar exploration, also to prove that Russia today is no longer behind other nations scientifically.

CRETAN REBELS' FLIGHT M. VENIZELOS INTERNED

END OF REVOLT

ATHENS, Wednesday

The island of Crete, which until yesterday was the chief stronghold of the Venizelist revolutionaries, is once more under the control of the Greek Government today.

M. Venizelos, the ex-Premier and ex-President who led the revolt and who proclaimed Crete an independent republic on Saturday night, is interned in the island of Kasos, in the Italian Dodecanese. M. Aposkitis, Governor of Crete, is out of the prison where the insurgents placed him on gaining control of the island, and has reinstated all the civil servants ejected by the Venizelists.

M. Venizelos left Crete yesterday on board the cruiser Giorgios Averoff accompanied by Admiral Demesticha, M. Maris, former Minister of Finance, and many other revolutionary leaders and personal adherents of the ex-President, who were involved in the attempt to overthrow the Tsaldaris Government. They arrived some hours later at Kasos, and were immediately interned by the Italian authorities there.

No Extradition

Their arrival is confirmed by an official statement issued in Rome. The statement adds that M. Venizelos is considered to be a political fugitive, and therefore will not be extradited.

It is also announced that a Greek submarine, which had joined the rebel forces, put into port in the island of Patmos, which is also in the Dodecanese group and therefore Italian territory. The crew of eight officers and thirty other ranks, as well as one civilian who was on board, were interned on the island.

The crews of the remaining vessels of the rebel squadron, the destroyers Psara and Leon and the submarine Nereus, informed the naval authorities yesterday that they had been kept prisoners at Canea, in Crete, but were released yesterday morning, have been ordered to take over the command of the former rebel warships and bring them back to the naval base at Salmis.

The victorious leader of the Government troops in Macedonia and Thrace, General Kondylis, Minister of War, was given a rousing welcome by immense crowds at the railway station when he arrived here yesterday. Other demonstrations of public enthusiasm took place outside the residence of General Tsaldaris, the Premier, and the whole population of Athens gave itself up to celebrating the Government's swift and decisive victory in the North.

THE ETHIOPIANS NEW NOTE TO ROME

ROME, Wednesday

Yet another note from the Ethiopian Government has been handed to the Foreign Office here.

The note, handed in yesterday, requests an early reply to the note of February 21, in which Ethiopia suggested negotiations to fix the procedure of arbitration provided for in the Italo-Ethiopian treaty of friendship of 1928. The present note also reiterates Ethiopia's determination to appeal to the League of Nations in case the arbitration procedure proves impossible.

Another 15,000 Italian soldiers left Naples yesterday for East Africa. The troops assembled at Naples were reviewed by King Victor Emmanuel, and received an enthusiastic reception from the Neapolitans, the streets being decorated and strewn with flowers.

The negotiations between Italy and Ethiopia for a settlement of the frontier incidents remain at a standstill. The Ethiopian Government continues to insist that impartial investigation to determine the responsibility for the incidents must precede any reparation for the alleged attacks on Italian Somaliland soldiers by Ethiopians, while the Italian Government apparently still insists on reparations first and negotiations afterwards.

The conciliatory attitude of Addis Abbaba is the most hopeful sign in the whole controversy, while the continued transport of troops to the Italian East African colonies gives a sinister significance to the Duce's delays. It is known that the Emperor of Ethiopia is anxious to end the dispute and to have the frontier between his dominions and the Italian colonies properly surveyed and delimited.

He has guarded against the danger of finding France allied with

WHITE PAPER DEBATE GOVERNMENT TRIUMPH

FRENCH VIEW

PARIS, Wednesday

Considerable satisfaction is expressed in the press at the course taken by Monday's debate in the British House of Commons on the subject of the White Paper on Imperial defence published on March 4.

The debate was awaited here more eagerly than in France. In view of the profound impression which the publication of the Paper had on the European continent, public opinion was anxious to learn to what extent, if at all, the British Government would be prepared to modify its original utterance.

The result was by no means disappointing to wide sections of the French public, if it is possible to judge from the comments in the press. L'Echo de Paris, the mouthpiece of the General Staff, leads the congratulatory of the papers, expressing satisfaction at the attitude of Mr. Baldwin.

Nothing Retracted

The Deputy Premier, as reported to L'Echo de Paris, made to the House that the British Government has retracted nothing. The theme he defended so resolutely represents the truth, he concludes, that the policy of the Labour Party and its aims was hardly justified.

Le Journal writes that the Government's policy is approved by the Commons and the position of the British Secretary for the negotiations, which are to begin towards the end of this month with the possible leaders of Germany.

CARS FOR CAMELS

CAIRO, Wednesday

The ship of the desert, long the symbol of Egypt and famed in song and story for his prowess in war and on the march, is being officially supplanted. The camel must bow to modern engineering and science, it was demonstrated here yesterday.

Practical tests with motorised cavalry were undertaken on Monday, and the results were surprisingly successful. It was proved that motorised units are superior in the desert in every way to horses and camels.

In the presence of King Fuad the tests were made in the sand desert between Cairo and Suez. In the manoeuvres motorised divisions and those composed entirely of horse and camel mounts faced one another for the first time.

What caused most astonishment to the military experts and observers was the ease with which heavy armoured cars operated in the sand, proving far quicker and more reliable than the traditional defense forces.

While no definite announcements concerning the results were released, beyond their success in proving the superiority of the motor method over the animal method of desert warfare, it is understood that the Camel Corps will shortly be largely, if not entirely, supplanted by motor units.

One result undoubtedly will be that Hollywood and romantic fiction writers will have to mend their ways when dealing with desert wars in the future. No longer will the splay-footed, proud camel lend dignity, romance and atmosphere to stories of Egypt.

GERMANY'S ADMISSION

BERLIN, Wednesday

The truth concerning the existence of a German air force, hitherto firmly denied, has finally been admitted by labyrinthine and involved methods.

The admission was made to the German nation and to foreign powers by an unofficial notification by General Goering's Chief of Staff to the British, French and Italian air attachés to the effect that there would be a reorganisation of sixteen territorial air offices into five regional centres, including one designed for the defence of Berlin.

Seaplanes, according to the notification, are grouped as a special maritime command, and are to have their main base at Kiel.

It is understood that there will be no diplomatic notification issued, although the truth has definitely been admitted, however, known all over Germany, in spite of the fact that the air forces of Europe had one of the most powerful commands.

The existence of an air force in Germany is forbidden by the Treaty of Versailles. Both of the latter are definitely known and proved to be in the Reich.

The air force has been composed of commercial planes comprising one of the best and most organised in the world. The major planes in use on the lines are designed to be converted into bombers and pursued within forty-eight hours.

PERSECUTION

The Age of Intolerance, which has believed to be safely buried as far as the more civilised parts of the world were concerned, is with us once more.

The canonisation of Sir Thomas More and Bishop Fisher, who lost their heads for declining to allow their consciences to be ruled by King Henry VIII, is about to be proclaimed in Rome. The event is a reminder of the evil which prevailed in their time, and is once more raising its head in ours.

Another reminder from the same source drives home the moral.
Whether the mysterious Mexican with the dagger meant to murder the Holy Father or not, his arrest by the Vatican guards has served to recall to the press and the public the struggle which the Church in Mexico is making to escape annihilation at the hands of the rulers of that country.

The Mexican Marxists are of course only imitating the model provided for them in Russia. It is not necessary, however, to go so far East or West to find the same spirit making itself felt in other days.

A Communist is being tried for his life at Hamburg at the same time that a mass trial of German inhabitants of the Memel territory is being held at Kovno. The Communist may be guilty of murder, and the Germans of treason, as the German and Lithuanian public prosecutors respectively assert, or they may not.

Guilty or not guilty, however, it is safe to say that they will be condemned. For they are not being tried for their actions, but for their ideas and their sentiments.

The indignant outbursts of the Voelkische Beobachter on the subject of the Kovno trial are as tire-somely silly as the efforts of apologists to prove that the respective plots of Henry VIII and Good Queen Bess were blacker, or less black, than the kettles of the Holy Office or of Mary Tudor. There is an old-fashioned thing called logic which demands that those who demand just treatment shall be ready to extend it to others.

ON THE ISLAND

By The Wayfarer

Evidence that another year has rolled around and disappeared into the blue is furnished by the announcement that Island artists and craftsmen are to be given their annual opportunity to show their wares to an all-Island public. Last year the exhibition of arts and crafts held under the auspices of the ever-active Majorca Society of Arts attracted paintings from many local artists including Mr. John Ferren, Mrs. Dobbs, and Mr. Thomas Jones. Sculpture was well taken care of by Mrs. Thomas Jones who showed some of her more recent work. Several Island craftsmen gave the foreign colony a chance to look at their excellent taste and skill as book-binders.

This year's exhibition, which will be held in the rooms of the Junior Club in El Terreno, is scheduled for the week following Easter, but plans have already been made by several local artists and artisans to prepare their exhibitions for the show. Mr. John Ferren, who is now getting a bit tired of a Paris winter, may be back among us and will certainly then show his latest canvases. Mr. K. Gousseff, the Russian painter who held a one-man exhibition at the Alfonso some months ago, is expected to furnish the show with some of his Mallorquin paintings. He has more than twenty-five oils painted during his stay in Mallorca.

BOOSTER:—

The Wayfarer's special correspondent in London is in a state of great excitement over the unlooked for praise that the Island is receiving in the British capital. He writes that the City is being made Mallorca-conscious through the efforts of Mr. Martin Cahn. It was Mr. Cahn who flew to Palma a short time ago to visit his two children, Robert and Irene, at the Ecole Internationale. He stayed here for about two weeks and in that time was converted into a charter member of the Booster's Society.
Mr. Cahn thinks the Island is just about perfect and his children agree with him. He is coming back at the first opportunity.

POSTPONED:—

Miss Higgenbotham, who has been living in Corp Mari for some time past, was to give a musical recital at the Sunday meeting of the Majorca Society of Arts. Hoarseness prevented her appearance, however, and the recital was postponed for two weeks.

RETURN:—

Perhaps many of our readers will remember Mrs. O'Brien Davidson and Miss Peggy Davidson, who left Palma for New York City last October. There was some small talk at the time of their departure that the Davidsons might or would return but nothing definite was decided—at least by the Davidsons.
It is now being said in rather authoritative circles that their return is but a matter of weeks. People from the states just can't stay away from Mallorca once they have experienced the sweet joys of Balaric life. And visa versa.

GOING:—

The «Lolin» hairdressing establishment is to be closed and Mrs.
Daniel, its charming proprietress, is to be absent from Island society for a long time, maybe forever. She is leaving for the mainland, after many years in Palma, to join Mr.
Daniels, an engineer now engaged by the Spanish government. But the family business is to be carried on by Mrs. Daniel's sister who will open a new institute for feminine beauty (when and if needed) in Palma, which institute will specialize, oddly enough, in its owner's specialty—the facial massage.

FAMILY:—

M. Pierre Trittens, the young French-Swiss instructor at the Ecole Internationale, has a visiting friend whose family is one of the oldest aristocratic families in France. The young man, who is the present representative of this long and honourable line of ancestors, is rather secretive about the whole matter. All that is known now is that the young French nobleman is a guest at the Terreno Hotel.

CALIFORNIA:—

Dr. Reinhard, the German physician who lived on the Island for three years, is visiting his brother in California. Both Drs. Reinhard seem to thrive in the climate there, but our Dr. Reinhard is not unwilling to return to the Balearics. To many that will be good news.

Out Of My Head

by HARRY GALLAND

Mr. H. G. Wells is now in New York, where it is reported he has gone to start out on a three weeks tour. During that time, Mr. Wells says, he intends to make an intensive study of the New Deal.

Mr. Wells is generally considered to possess one of the greatest intellects of his time. Few will deny that he has earned that opinion by virtue of the books he has written and the serious ideas he has proposed in the course of his long career.

It is something of a shock, therefore, to learn that Mr. Wells seriously proposes to study such a monumental effort as the New Deal and all that it stands for in the course of three weeks.

Perhaps Mr. Wells was spoofing, which is one of his habits. The disconcerting thing about his spoofing is that it is difficult to know when he is engaged in it and when he is not.

For instance, when he arrived in New York a few days ago, the inevitable ship news reporters went down the bay to meet his ship and ask him the inevitable questions.
According to an authentic report, one of them asked the eminent British thinker what he thought of the decline of the pound.

Mr. Wells replied that he had been out of touch with the current quotations during the last few days. One of those present informed him that the rate was then three forty-five dollars to the pound. «What!» exclaimed the writ-ter. «Three hundred and forty-five dollars to the pound! I didn't know the pound had declined so rapidly!»

In the course of that interview he expressed himself as keenly interested in Father Coughlin, the radio priest, and Senator Huey Long, both of them current exhibits in American politics. Huey Long, Mr.
Wells said, he considered a 200 per cent American.

There is, of course, something in that. Huey Long is so 200 per cent in some respects that he is dangerous. He is not stupid by any means, nor is Father Coughlin. But their fellow-citizens watch both with frequent misgivings. It is to be hoped that Mr. Wells realizes this.

According to the author, every good Englishman should go to the United States at least once a year.
He says that things are happening there which it is worth while to watch.

It is not enough, in his opinion, to read the newspapers, even though they are American papers, to a number of which he says he subscribes. Newspapers, he maintains, are meaningless unless read in the country in which they are printed.

Much of this, as one expects from Wells, is cogent reasoning. For the rest, the tendency of Mr. Wells' tongue to lodge in his cheek is disconcerting, to say the least. And it might get stuck there.

SNOW ON THE ISLAND

The mountains on the northern side of the Island are reported today to be covered with snow, which has also made its appearance again on the hills nearer Palma in consequence of the drop in temperature experienced during the last two days.

The minimum temperature recorded at sea level has been 1.25 degrees Centigrade. The southern part of Mallorca, however, has escaped the extreme cold which is being reported from the mainland.

BARCELONA, Wednesday

Heavy snow has fallen throughout Catalonia, especially on the mountains.

High points within sight of Barcelona itself are snow-covered. Several main roads are understood to be intercepted by drifts, and trains are arriving here considerably behind their scheduled times.

The trains from San Juan de las Abadesas and Puigcerdá in the Pyrenees, were already arriving late yesterday. They had been held up by the blizzard, which was exceptionally severe in the province of Gerona.

Messages from Lérida likewise report a heavy fall, particularly at Estangent and Bonalagua, the snow reaching a depth of 2.65 metres in the latter place. Snowfalls are also reported from some villages in the Urgel and Las Garridas districts, and there is no immediate prospect of a change in the weather.

Cold, snowy weather is also being experienced in Asturias, according to a message from Oviedo. The recent blizzards caused great damage in the northern provinces, and it is feared that there will now be further losses.

WORLD EVENTS IN BRIEF

ROME, Wednesday

General Plastiras, who tried unsuccessfully to reach Greece via Italy in order to take part in the revolt, has made an attempt to get back to Cannes, where he was staying when the revolution broke out. He is being detained because he is said to have used a false name in Italy.

DUBLIN, Wednesday

The rail strike was ended yesterday by a Union decree, and it is anticipated that other transport workers will follow suit immediately.

VIENNA, Wednesday

Nine pupils learning how to ski lost their lives Monday night at Schladminger Tauern owing to a heavy snow avalanche. All those killed belonged to the German club Suedmark of South Vienna.

GENEVA, Wednesday

The Argentine representatives yesterday raised the question of equal customs concessions and privileges contained in the trade treaties which Great Britain recently concluded with Germany, Denmark and Norway. The ministry has asked the Chinese Minister in London to be instructed to deal with the matter.

SPORT SHORTS

WEMBLEY, Wednesday

The British heavyweight Baines outpointed the South African Ford in their match here. At Manchester the World Flyweight Champion, Jackie Brown, drew in his bout with Kid Francis. The Canadian Westob, cruiserweight, drew in his ten-round fight with the German, Seelig.

KINGSTON, Wednesday

The latest cricket scores are M. C. C. 311; Jamaica 166 for two wickets.

SAN FRANCISCO CLOISTER

MADRID, Wednesday. The official gazette published in order of the Ministry of Public Instruction approving the plans estimates for restoring the cloister of the church of San Francisco in Palma de Mallorca, which national monument.

The work is estimated to 49,864 pesetas. That sum will be charged to the appropriate account of the Ministry.

The project has been drawn up by Don Jerónimo Martorell, architect for the conservation of monuments for the third zone. He proposes to preserve as much of existing fabric as possible, replacing only what is definitely unusable.

Where the original beams of roof are still sound they will be left in place, and the rotten, wormeaten ones will be replaced by new timber. Similarly, the stone of the arches of the cloister will be judged separately on merits.

The work will therefore be of a very delicate nature, and will require skilled and careful workmanship. That fact is recognised in the preamble to the Ministry's order.

The Civil Construction Board, in the order records, has reported favourably on the practicability of Señor Martorell's plan. It was laid before the Board that week over what is officially known as the Artistic Treasure of the Nation, which set the seal of its approval on the scheme on January 28.

The competent Treasury official likewise gave his sanction to necessary expenditure, and the final approval of the Ministry the last stage of the working of the bureaucratic machine. Only adjudication of the contract remains before the old cloister which has been in imminent danger of collapse for many months. It is hoped, will make it as good as new for a few more centuries.

SHOOTING OF SPANIARD

Conditions remain as they have been since Saturday, with the streets deserted and martial law and the curfew order unrelaxed.

An order issued yesterday by the Cuban Government states that those guilty of sabotage and terrorism will be sentenced to death after a summary trial. Penalties of from two to five years imprisonment await prisoners arrested for attempting to cause disturbances.

Martial law was proclaimed shortly after midnight on Saturday after a serious revolt had broken out against President Mendieta's Government. The city of Havana spent a night of terror while guerrilla warfare went on between the terrorists and the Government forces in the streets, which were in complete darkness.

Soldiers, sailors and police, aided by searchlights, poured a withering fire from rifles and machine guns against the housetops in the effort to dislodge snipers. Scores are known to have been killed and many more wounded in the fighting, and the jails are now crowded with political prisoners.

At present, radio has been found to be the most effective of all methods of propaganda, and since a dictatorship lives on propaganda, it has been used as extensively in Russia as in Italy and Germany. In both the latter countries, as in Russia, radio takes precedence over all other means of national and political publicity.

General Kondylis, who has now fled earlier in the day that the Government had no intention of restoring the Monarchy, as had been asserted by the Venizelists. This announcement is considered all the more significant, since the political influence and popularity of the Minister of War has been enormously enhanced by his swift action in crushing the revolt.

General Kondylis, who has now vanquished his former political ally, M. Venizelos, crushed the insurrection of General Metaxas in 1932, overthrew the military dictatorship of M. Pangalos in 1926, and suppressed the revolt of General Plastiras in 1933. He has thus checkmated all the potential trouble-makers in Greece in turn, and it is confidently expected that the country will be spared another revolution for some years to come.

The Government is stated to have addressed a note to Bulgaria demanding the extradition of General Kamenos, who commanded the rebels in Macedonia, and his staff, who crossed the frontier on Monday. The Greek consul at Philippopolis, in Bulgaria, is reported to have succeeded in recovering 60,000,000 drachmae, which the fugitive rebel chiefs had taken from the National Bank at Kavalla.

The Italian Minister at Athens has made representations to the Greek Government because the Italian consulate at Kavalla was fired upon in the course of the operations against the Macedonian rebels. General Tsaldaris replied expressing deep regret, and adding that the incident was all the more deplorable since Italy's friendship towards Greece had in this hour of danger shown itself in its real sincerity and loyalty.

It is pointed out in other quarters that Great Britain can no longer be disinterested in the independence of France, Belgium and the Netherlands, but on the contrary is under an obligation to watch over the safety of those countries, which lie between its own frontiers and Germany. That doctrine is hailed as an unmistakable advance as compared with 1914.

The general verdict of the French press is that the debate in the House of Commons constituted both a tremendous victory for the Government and a vindication of the standpoint taken up in the White Paper. Several papers emphasise the restraint of Mr. Baldwin, whose speech contained little new information, but aimed mainly at proving that the White Paper was not directed against Germany and that the defence measures adopted by Britain are still inadequate by comparison with those of other world powers.

THE ETHIOPIANS

Italy against him by the prompt payment of compensation for the death of a French official killed in a raid by Ethiopian tribesmen in French Somaliland since the Italian dispute started. The frontier with Ethiopia's other neighbour, British Somaliland, has already been fixed, and a mixed Ethiopian and British Commission appointed to determine disputed grazing and watering rights of tribes living in the border country.

It was the Ethiopian escort of that Commission which was engaged in the first clash with the Italians at Walwal in December.
