Should Christmas be Abolished?

A well-known novelist contributed a very interesting article to one of the English Christmas Numbers last year, on a subject which has never been previously discussed—"Should Christmas be abolished?" In the course of his observations he remarked: "It is so easy to be iconoclastic. And it is a nice feeling. The man who overthrows an empire or reviews a novel unfavourably in the Press has a sense of destruction which corresponds exactly to the amount of effort involved in the creation of the work. If I could abolish Christmas I should be as important in history as all the sun-worshippers and the Gothic bards and the early Christians and Mr. Gordon Selfridge and all the other kind, generous people who have helped to make the occasion what it is. And I should hate to abolish Christmas. Not because it is so pleasant, or so romantic, or would deprive so many people of innocent enjoyment, but because it is so unpleasant, so unromantic and because nobody enjoys it in the least. Distinguished persons do not place caps upon their heads and pull crackers to amuse themselves. They know quite well that it makes them appear ridiculous, and nobody likes doing that. They do it to amuse the other people.

"So long as a man of business, or a man of war, or a man of politics, or a man of diplomacy, or a man of any other of those disgraceful pursuits in which we are all more or less engaged will over eat himself in order to be pleasant—there is hope for the world.

"The figure of a politician in a paper hat is one that points the way to better things. A picture of six cats in a basket from a newspaper peer is an augury of happy omen. Murderers may sulk in alleys and blunt instruments thud in the night watches, but so long as the Yule log burns, all's right with the world.

"I believe it was de la Rochefoucauld who said: 'Life would be endurable but for its pleasures.' One might improve on that: 'Life would be no pleasure but for its endurances.'

"And when all is said and done, one must admit a certain attraction in these dreadful exercises, when one performs them purely to be unselfish.

"So I would say to you: Buy your calendars! Put on your paper caps! Eat till you can eat no more! And a Merry Christmas to you all!"

Christmas and the World Crisis.

by C. F. Hucklesby.

Thirteen years after the great war, Christmas 1931 finds the world in the midst of an economic crisis unparalleled in history. There have been economic and financial crises in the past, but never one on the present scale. Nearly every country which was a belligerent in the war, and some which were not, is faced in 1932 with the probability of a huge deficit. Communism is vociferous, and revolution is afoot, as always in time of economic stress. The British have decided to maintain solvency, and to restore the trade balance by whatever drastic steps the National Government may deem necessary, and are bearing a tremendous burden of taxation cheerfully. Never the less, declining receipts from customs, the possibility of collapse in Germany, and the continued liquidation of foreign holdings of British securities, are giving the National Government and the Chancellor of the Exchequer much food for thought. In the United States, where two years ago even the possibility of the present situation was undreamed of, the position is getting worse. Unemployment, already on an unparalleled scale, is increasing, and the possible deficit for 1932 is estimated at an enormous sum. France, the most prosperous, as she is the strongest Power of the Continent, is not exempt from the prevailing distress. Unemployment is also increasing there, and the fall of the pound sterling, the position of Germany, and a probable deficit, have added to the anxieties of French statesmen. The position of Germany, politically and economically, is most serious; China and Japan face each other with hostility, and only the influence of the League of Nations has prevented a real clash.

This catalogue of woes from which the world is suffering might be continued, but it is more profitable to look for the silver lining of the black and depressing cloud which overshadows us. If there is one lesson which the war, and the economic chaos which has resulted from it, has taught us, it is that no country can stand alone. Progress and prosperity are possible, and can return to the world only if the world sets its face steadfastly toward an era of peace, of co-operation, of mutual respect and tolerance and reasonable adjustment to each others interests, founded on a spirit of goodwill to all.

"Peace on earth goodwill to all men"! Never before has this message been more timely, nor its translation into solid achievement so necessary to the salvation of a distracted world. In face of the difficulties confronting us, the individual feels that he is a straw, being tossed about at the mercy of powerful and mysterious currents which are beyond control, and though desirous of helping, he knows not what form that help should take. Yet in truth the vast results we see, the irresistible currents that bear us along, represent the mass result of the thoughts and actions of many individuals, each moving in a small cycle, often dictated by economic pressure and the many motives that human nature is subject to, often influenced by a narrow nationalism, prejudice, and intolerance, uninformed by a knowledge of what the ultimate collective effect will be, and uninspired by broad sympathies.

For the present we must, to whatever nation we may belong, trust our statesmen, economists, and bankers to lead us out of this chaos, so far as this can be accomplished by economic and political re-organization. For the rest, nothing will help us more than strongly-felt mass-movements towards peace and goodwill, without which no improvement can be hoped for. With a powerful backing of this spirit in all countries, the problems of disarmament, reparations, war debts, security, tariffs, and unemployment may perhaps be solved in a manner on the whole reasonable and satisfactory to a majority of people.

Christmas is a time for happiness. Let each of us say to himself, "I have no enemies and am an enemy to none, and will do what lies in my power to translate the ideal of peace and goodwill to all into solid fact". Then let us spend our Christmas cheerfully and joyously, forgetting present anxieties, prepared and strengthened for what the future may bring. And may it bring what we all need and long for.

The Colony.

We have an interesting visitor to the Island just now in the person of Master Peter Lawford, son of General Sir Sydney and Lady Lawford. Peter, who is only seven years old, has been declared by experts to be the equal of Jackie Coogan as a film star. His success in the films was instantaneous. Seen dancing in the drawing room of a famous producer, he was at once offered a test at Elstree, the British Hollywood. At the studio, Monty Banks, who was then casting his picture «Big Bill's War Debt», exclaimed, «You're just the boy we are looking for», and assigned him a part without troubling to give him a test. His talents are many, and of such and unusual variety that he has indeed proved a find to English pictures. He speaks English, French, and Spanish; sings, dances, and gives impersonations of well-known stars, such as Clara Bow and Maurice Chevalier; to which accomplishments he has recently added that of playing the ukelele.

Just now Peter has set aside the screen and is thoroughly enjoying a vacation, doing the things which are natural for a boy of his age to be fond of doing. Nor has his success in any way affected his youthful interests. He has a natural craving for knowledge; Lady Lawford has undertaken the care of this and in fact his entire education.

He decided to act for the pictures quite of his own accord and up to the present has exhibited no inclination to follow in the military careers of his father and grandfather.

Mr. Bernard Wait and family spent last week on the Island. Mr. Wait is of the London office of the United States Treasury Department.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Frederick Gale entertained on December 10th with a supper party. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Talcott H. Camp, Miss Emily Camp, Mrs. R. H. VanSant, Mrs. C. Y. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. William Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Williams, Mrs. Banning, Miss Catherine Wheeler, Mrs. T. H. Mirkil, Mr. H. H. Mirkil, Colonel and Mrs. Nathaniel Cartmell, Mr. W. McKenzie.

Lady Constance Mathew, who is now staying at the Principal Alphonso Hotel, was formerly Lady Constance Stuart-Richardson. Lady Constance Mathew is a noted big game hunter and is credited with more kills than any other woman.

Mr. and Mrs. Talcott H. Camp entertained on December 13th at their home in Bonanova. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. R. Mappin, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Williams, Miss Emily B. Camp, Mrs. R. H. VanSant, Col. and Mrs. N. Cartmell, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frederick Gale, Miss Catherine Wheeler, Mrs. C. Y. Watson, Mr. H. H. Mirkil.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Williams of the Grand Hotel gave a dinner party on December 14th for the following guests. Mrs. R. H. VanSant, Mr. and Mrs. Talcott H. Camp, Miss Emily B. Camp, Mr. W. McKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Gale.

Captain Harry De Wint, famous arctic and world explorer, has nearly completed his new book on Majorca and Minorca. It is expected to have the book, which will be edited and published in London, on sale about the middle of March next. We have every reason to believe that it will prove to be a very useful work, not only to those who are living here, but to every one interested in travel. The author has avoided making it a guide book, and throughout the reader is conscious of his versatile personality. The book is profusely illustrated with photographs taken by Dr. F. Gilbert Scott.

Commander and the Honorable Mrs. Hillgarth arrived recently on the Yacht "Bluewater".

The Messers. Weld, of Boston, have rented Son Semola, the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. VanSant, in Bonanova.

Puerto de Pollensa.

Mrs. Mason Garfield and her two daughters, Miss Alicia and Miss Bárbara Garfield, of Concord, Massachusetts, have recently rented the new flat of the Hotel Illa D'or, which they expect to occupy for about six months. Mr. Garfield is expecting to join them in January.

Miss Mary D. Coles, well known painter, of New York and Paris, has leased the picturesque Casa Pescador for her studio. Miss Coles will do a number of Majorcan canvases, which will be exhibited in Paris next summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Aldin, Mrs. Mason, and Commander and Mrs. Bradley spent last Sunday at the Port.

General and Mrs. Parker had a very successful fishing trip, last Wednesday. Their catch numbered twenty six and all were of good size.

Guests who were at the Mar-i-cell last summer will be interested to hear of the wedding of Mrs. Catesby Jones, to Colonel Warden, of Buckland Tous Saints, Devon. The ceremony took place quietly on November 16th at the family chapel of Bucklands.

Last Tuesday a small informal dinner was given by Don Buadas, proprietor of the Mar-i-cell, and his wife, Doña Francisca Mayol. Amongst those present were Mrs. Helen de Vries Gottlieb, Don Bartolomé Torres, vicar of Puerto Pollensa, and Don Ignacio Rotger, manager of the Formentor Hotel. Toward the end of the dinner Master Don Bartolomé Juan Buadas (8 months) put in an appearance and was loudly acclaimed by all.

On behalf of the "Institute Social de la Marina" (branch of the Ministry of Works and Provisions). Don Juan Klein has been appointed Inspector of the "Pósito de Pescadores" of Pollensa. Don Juan is a well-known resident of the Mar-i-cel.

General and Mrs. Parker entertained last Friday night at the Hotel Mar-i-cel. A dance followed at the English Bar. The guests were Captain and Mrs. Barley, Mrs. L. Barley, Colonel Davies, Captain Dix, Miss Frances Wright. M. and Mme. Cittadin and Chiquita, the monkey.

A revival of interest has been shown in tennis at the Puerto Pollensa. Every bright day finds the courts crowded with aspirants who are practicing for the January tournament. Mr. W. Randy Pietsch is the chairman of this tournament.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barley entertained on Friday, December 11th, with a dinner party and dance. The guests were General and Mrs. Parker, Captain Dix, Colonel Davies, Mrs. Klein, Mrs. Davis, and Miss Antoine Allard.

Majorcan Aniversaries of Last Week.

December 13th 1486. — When the Jurymen of the Kingdom learned of the excessive expenditures in dress, they formed fourteen chapters to act against this waste. These chapters passed a rule that no Senora or Senorita, who was not the daughter or wife of a Knight, could wear silk. The penalty for breaking this law was loss of the article and a fine of 25 pounds.

December 14th 1311.—Upon demand by the ambassadors, the King Sancho at last granted a coat of arms to the Mallorcans to be used on their flag.

December 15th 1355.—As a result of the war between the King of Argon and the King of Castilia, a study was made of the conditions of the castles with regard to their possible defense.

December 16th 1350.—By order of the King, all documents are to be dated from the birth of Jesus Christ.

December 17th 1292.—King Don Jaime II has ordered that the standard measure, for linens and woolens, shall be the "cana", a measure equal to two ells.

December 18th 1758.—Prayers were offered for the health of King Fernando VI, who has been ill.

December 19th 1733.—By the Kings order all men who would not work were ordered pressed into the military service.

A New Hotel at Palma.

On December 12th. the inauguration of the new Majorica Hotel was celebrated by a buffet luncheon, offered by the proprietress, Mrs. Garzón, to about forty guests. The new hotel is splendidly situated in Corp Mari, overlooking the sea, at the entrance to the harbour of Palma. It has about twenty five modern rooms, with hot and cold running water. There are also rooms with private baths. The pension rate is about 15 Pts. The little celebration was very enjoyable, and we extend, to Mrs. Garzón, our best wishes for success.

We have been requested to call our reader's attention to the following:

The Committee representing the British and American residents and visitors in Majorca solicits support of the Fund associated with the chaplaincy of the Rev. John De B. Forbes at the English Church, situated at The English Tea Rooms, Avenida de 14 de Abril, N.º 37, El Terreno.

Unlike the many Mediterranean chaplaincies which are substantially aided by central or diocesan funds, Palma receives only a nominal grant towards travelling expenses out and home. Except for this it is wholly dependent upon the voluntary support of the English-speaking community.

During last season the Fund amounted to 7.505 ptas., of which 3.884 ptas. came from the Sunday offertories and 3.621 ptas. from contributions made in response to the Committee's appeal. The expenses for rent, organ, etc. were 471 ptas.

Contributions, which may be sent direct to the Chaplain at the Hotel Reina Victoria, or placed in the Chaplain's Box after any service, with the name and address, will be gratefully acknowledged.
